Accessible Communication Foundations
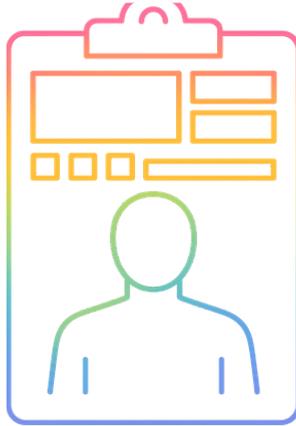

Practical AAC & plain-language skills for inclusive learning

Course summary

Overview

This microcredential equips educators, library staff and community facilitators with practical, evidence-informed communication strategies to increase participation.

Participants learn low-barrier AAC approaches, how to create Easy Read and symbol-supported materials, and how to run short sessions with verification checks to demonstrate access.

Accessible Communication Foundations

What is this course?

A short, practical course. You learn easy ways to help people communicate. The course shows simple AAC tools, Easy Read, and how to run a short session so everyone can join.

Quick facts

Duration: 8–12 learning hours (1 workshop 3–4 hrs + guided practice + assessment)

Format: Workshop + guided practice; delivered as partner cohort, tailored in-house workshop, or blended online cohort

Assessment: Short implementation task + evidence brief (templates provided)

Access: Easy Read, Auslan and symbol packs included

What you will learn

What is AAC and when to use it

How to make Easy Read materials and pick symbols

How to write simple scripts and prompts for a session

How to check that people can join and take part

What you will make

A short communication plan for a 30–60 minute activity

1 page of Easy Read or 2 sample symbol cards

A short note on how you know people joined

Who is this for?

Teachers, library staff, community workers, and others who run short activities or workshops.

How to sign up

Register interest on the website

Email founder@edulinked.com.au

Need help?
Tick the Easy Read box when you sign up or email to ask for Auslan or symbol support.